The 9th Skoll World Forum is brought to you by the Skoll Foundation in collaboration with the Skoll Centre for Social Entrepreneurship at the Saïd Business School, University of Oxford.

SKOLL FOUNDATION
PALO ALTO,
CALIFORNIA, USA
SALLY OSBERG
PRESIDENT AND CEO

The Skoll Foundation drives large scale change by investing in, connecting and celebrating social entrepreneurs and the innovators who help them solve the world's most pressing problems. Founded by Jeff Skoll and led by Sally Osberg, it has given $315 million since 1999, including awards to 91 entrepreneurs in 74 organisations on five continents.

THE SKOLL WORLD FORUM IS THE PREMIER, INTERNATIONAL PLATFORM FOR ACCELERATING ENTREPRENEURIAL APPROACHES AND INNOVATIVE SOLUTIONS TO THE WORLD'S MOST PRESSING SOCIAL ISSUES.

The term "flux" is commonly used to connote significant change, confusion or even chaos. When I studied electrical engineering, it was a term used to state the rate of flow of energy through a particular area over a specific amount of time. Whatever your perspective, in this time of great uncertainty, flux is the one constant. It is the persistent backdrop against which social entrepreneurs pursue large scale change.

We are here in Oxford to celebrate the powerful "rate of flow of energy" that social entrepreneurs unleash on big issues entrenched in complex, unsustainable systems. From preserving rainforests to educating African girls, from empowering subsistence farmers to guarding against climate change, the impact of social entrepreneurs emerges from the flux and demonstrates that a sustainable, peaceful and prosperous world is within our reach. The need to bolster and accelerate the work of these world-changing innovators has never been more urgent.

It is with hope and in solidarity that I welcome all of you to Oxford for the 9th annual Skoll World Forum. Clearly, flux is not just for the engineering textbooks anymore.

FLUX

SEIZING MOMENTUM, DRIVING CHANGE

FLUX, by definition, is not a sudden, unexpected and inherently unwelcome change, but rather a continuous flow. As an operating paradigm, it expresses the fluid nature of relationships, policies, institutions and human beings which are ever changing in non-linear ways. Worldwide, social entrepreneurs are working at the intersections of policy, institutional and behaviour change. They are adept at seizing the opportunities present in this fluid environment. They can tack with the shifting winds of economic change, cultural roadblocks and revolutionary political upheavals. They appreciate the complex nature of large scale change and the interdependent variables that must coalesce to improve the human condition. And, they have the moral imagination to create a new vision of peace and prosperity and hold it in their sights like a beacon as the path to success continuously changes. This year's Skoll World Forum invites you to explore FLUX, the dynamic environment within which social entrepreneurs navigate uncertainty in their pursuit of large scale change.

FORUM HIGHLIGHTS

DELEGATE DINNERS UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD COLLEGES, WEDNESDAY 1915-2130

A chance to go behind the mysterious walls of some of the best known colleges. Join fellow delegates for an atmospheric evening of dining and networking in one of University of Oxford's great halls. A seat of learning since the 12th century, each delegate dinner college will take you to the heart of historic Oxford. Make time to enjoy the journey as well as the destination as you pass some of Oxford's impressive buildings, including the Sheldonian Theatre and the Radcliffe Camera. Starts promptly at 1915.

FILM SCREENING: CONTAGION NEW THEATRE, THURSDAY 2100-2300

Academy Award® winner Steven Soderbergh directs a global thriller with an international cast headed by Matt Damon, Kate Winslet, Marion Cotillard, Jude Law, and Gwyneth Paltrow, filmed on location around the world, and co-financed and executive produced by Participant Media. Contagion follows the rapid progress of a lethal airborne virus and the worldwide medical community's race to find a cure.

Introduced by

Jeff Skoll and Jim Berk, CEO, Participant Media

Followed by Q&A

Larry Brilliant, President and CEO, Skoll Global Threats Fund

Mark Smolinski, Director, Global Health Threats, Skoll Global Threats Fund

Professor Rodney Phillips, Co-Director of the Oxford Martin School Institute of Emerging Infections

SKOLL AWARDS RECEPTION ASHMOLEAN MUSEUM, THURSDAY 1915-2200

Selected from an impressive field of social entrepreneurs, the Skoll Award recipients have already proven their potential to make large scale change in the world and will now leverage the Skoll Award to take their enterprise to new levels. This year's Awardees will be honoured in a ceremony at the New Theatre, followed by a celebration of their achievements at the Ashmolean Museum of Art and Archaeology, Britain's first public museum. Enjoy drinks and canapés amongst ancient exhibits.

OXFORDJAM THE OLD FIRE STATION, WEDNESDAY to FRIDAY 0800-2400

Join the Forum's very own fringe festival at its new location. Network with fellow delegates and the wider social enterprise community in one of Oxford's newest (old!) venues, The Old Fire Station, on George Street, between Saïd Business School and New Theatre. Running in parallel with the Forum, OxfordJam is open 8am-midnight, allowing Forum delegates to participate in breakfast and lunch sessions and to enjoy further opportunities for late night cabaret and networking. For more information on programming, visit www.oxfordjam.org.uk.

SUNDANCE INSTITUTE FILM SCREENING: STORIES OF CHANGE PREVIEW AND PANEL NEW THEATRE, WEDNESDAY 2130-2330

Fresh from a sold-out crowd at the Sundance Film Festival, this exciting one hour 'sneak peek' features clips and discussion with three social entrepreneurs and their award-winning filmmakers. Join Partners in Health, Barefoot College and Prayasam as we preview clips from the upcoming 'Stories of Change' films Solar Mama's with co-director Moan Eldaeif, the Partners in Health Project with Producer Cori Shepherd Stern and Revolutionary Optimists with co-directors Maren Grainger-Munson and Nicole Newnham and two very special guests featured in their film.

VICTORS, NOT VICTIMS: Women Driving Social Change and Striving for Peace in Conflict Zones

NELSON MANDELA LECTURE THEATRE

Somalia, Sudan and the DRC represent some of the most dangerous places in the world for women and the families they are trying to provide for and protect. Given the paradox that women are a proven, effective entry point for advancing social change and are powerful drivers of peace, how can social entrepreneurs, governments, foreign aid agencies and other funders adapt their own work and contributions to amplify and sustain their efforts? Meet heroic and innovative women who are creating outsized IMPACT in their war-torn homelands - they will tell you exactly what works and why they need you to be there with them.

FROM FARM TO PLATE: Financing Change, Changing Finance

EDMOND SAFRA LECTURE THEATRE

As consumer needs, expectations and preferences evolve and more closely reflect the social, environmental and quality standards they value, new opportunities and challenges are being introduced for developing, smallholder farming enterprises - the majority of producers for many key commodities. Linking smallholder producers with increased market demand offers opportunities to raise livelihoods, but at what cost to actors along these supply chains? This panel will explore how innovative finance can be developed to align interests and increase benefits for producers.

DEMANDING PROSPERITY FOR PEOPLE AND PLANET

RHODES TRUST LECTURE THEATRE

Humanity's demand for opportunity - and resources - is rising sharply. It's not just that there are more of us (7 billion!), but that we are altogether hungrier - for progress and products, protein and produce. And while many more of us are prospering, the demand is depleting our planet's natural capital faster than it can replenish. From donor institutions to cabinet ministries to local communities, how do we pave a path to prosperity that sustains both human development and the natural resource base upon which it depends? Sustainable progress requires creative solutions at the nexus of people and planet.

SOCIAL NORM ENTREPRENEURSHIP: Collective Action for Common Good?

LECTURE THEATRE 5

Achieving significant social impact requires more than an innovative solution and well-conceived strategy. Indeed, effecting social change always requires changing behaviour. Sometimes this involves ending entrenched but harmful social norms. At other times, and often in tandem, it requires fostering new norms that the whole community will embrace. This interactive session conducted by a leading theorist in "social norm entrepreneurship" will feature practical, transferable tips from practitioners who have had success in ending negative social norms and promoting positive ones.

TRANSFORMING HEALTHCARE FOR THE 21ST CENTURY: Innovations from the Ground Up

SEMINAR ROOM A

We live in an age of climate change, water scarcity, chemical exposures, population displacement, economic instability, and other challenges that impact health. By situating itself more squarely at the intersection of clinical care and the realities of local communities, healthcare can be transformed to improve community health, not just manage chronic disease. Skoll grantees will present innovative, on-the-ground approaches to make this new comprehensive vision and practice of healthcare a reality. Followed by a lively discussion with attendees to collectively architect the global healthcare system of the future.

SUSTAINABLE CAPITALISM: Integrating Sustainability from the Copy Room to the Board Room

Addressing our world's most pressing challenges, including climate change, food shortages, water scarcity, deforestation and poverty, requires a rethink of our entire economic system. Governments and civil society cannot win this battle alone; capital markets will need to mobilise resources to bring about this transformation. The business case is becoming clear; investors and companies that consider all costs and opportunities are seeing superior long-term value creation. RHODES TRUST LECTURE THEATRE

Many of us can barely catch our breath as we try to keep pace with today's rapid global change. But young people are in their element and seizing the day, using their boundless energy, ideas and fluency in new technology to create a different future for themselves, their communities and their countries. What if our policies, programmes, and investments caught up with this demographic sea change, viewing young people not as beneficiaries, but problem solvers? WIRED FOR CHANGE: The Neuroscience of Social Progress

Do our brains get in the way of solving complex social challenges? We build our view of the world on relatively simple interactions, but from this emerges extremely complex net behaviour. Our brains are like plastic, able to be moulded and shaped. Humans can and should learn how to navigate this behavioural system to create the world we want. Using key examples and a view into stunning, state of the art technologies, leading neuroscientists will share how behaviour is linked to emotional stimulus and how to establish principles of conflict resolution that have a "grounded truth" in neuroscience principles.

HORIZONTAL MEDIA: The New Influencers

SEMINAR ROOM A

SoLoMo, or so what? We look at how social, local and mobile is – and is not – morphing media. What will citizen journalists do next? Must you think local to be global? Is mobile the only way to reach, and change the minds, of millions? We will discuss how the news – public and private, formal and informal, in the west and the east – is bending to the systems that deliver it, and how it is resisting change. With "Horizontal Media," we all contribute to as well as digest the news, choosing when, how and with whom to share it. Does this mash-up of referrals and reportage herald a new world-changing era?

BBC FORUM: A Relationship of Equals?

NELSON MANDELA LECTURE THEATRE

Those who come together in pursuit of social change may aspire to a partnership of equality, but do they ever achieve it? Is it possible to create and achieve a true balance of power when the “outsiders” have most of the money and much of the resources? Hear perspectives on this sensitive topic from leaders and practitioners around the globe. This special session will be recorded by the acclaimed Forum radio programme airing on the BBC World Service, which reaches over 166 million globally. MOVING FROM DARKNESS TO LIGHT: Impact Investing in the Rural Electrification Ecosystem

EDMOND SAFRA LECTURE THEATRE

Reliable access to electricity in Sub-Saharan Africa and India is critical in lifting people from poverty to prosperity. The gap between demand and supply of electricity in these regions provides real opportunities for investors to attain financial returns while creating platforms for additional broad positive social change. Panelists at this session will use real case studies to show how to invest in technological innovations addressing this gap, and will preview rapidly emerging new commercial and social benefit products and services designed to meet the needs of the world's newest electricity consumers.

CATASTROPHIC RISK AND THREATS TO THE GLOBAL COMMONS

RHODES TRUST LECTURE THEATRE

This year marked the arrival of 7 billion people, ongoing globalization, accelerating technological change and rising expectations. While millions have emerged from poverty, the “tragedy of the commons” now hits at the planetary level. Climate change, water mismanagement, pandemics, and nuclear proliferation all undermine global public good, demanding collective action. Yet the global political economic system has yet to deliver solutions that work. This session will discuss commonalities across these threats, consider innovative ways to tackle them and explore implications for work on the ground.

PANEL SESSION ISSUES

DANCING WITH ELEPHANTS: Influencing Education Systems in a World in Flux

LECTURE THEATRE 4

Education is one of the sectors most impervious to change, as evidenced by continued reliance on outdated curricula, teaching methods and administrative processes. Yet helping today's youth develop new ways of thinking and relevant skills has never been more urgently required, given complex and accelerating local and global challenges. Where are innovations in the education system coming from and how are creative entrepreneurs working in traditional educational institutions to mainstream these approaches?

TRANSFORMING MARKETS TO SAVE FORESTS

LECTURE THEATRE 5

People have long lamented the destruction of the world's pristine forests. But to date, no one has had much success stopping destruction in the name of “progress”. This may be changing, however. The reason? Big companies are starting to fully realise the importance of finding more sustainable ways of doing business, which includes halting deforestation. Learn how multinationals may be the key to feeding the world's 7 billion people - without destroying precious land.

PANEL SESSION INFLUENCES

BEYOND CHARITY: From Reports to Returns

SEMINAR ROOM A

We know “charity” is insufficient to solve complex social problems- real impact requires integration of social, business and government solutions that show proven results without creating undue burdens on an organisation. Join us in a revolutionary dialogue about reimagining grant reporting, measurement and evaluation, market returns and communicating outcomes to better serve your business in a converging, global market. We will explore recent successes (and failures!), trends in measuring social value propositions and what we can do to drive a paradigm shift in the way we assess, measure and articulate impact.

ANDREA COLEMAN

Co-Founder and CEO
Riders for Health

Andrea Coleman is the Co-Founder and CEO of Riders for Health. She and her fellow-founder and husband, Barry Coleman, are life-long motorcyclists who saw that well-maintained motorcycles in Africa could transform health-care delivery and save resources. Bike racing and her work in sports management provided a practical outlook and skills to develop a strong organisation. "Introducing an innovation in vehicle management to deliver health care in Africa requires persistence and impatience with the status quo. I have both in abundance." she says.

ENVIRONMENTAL FOOTPRINT

To minimise the footprint of the Skoll World Forum, we have taken great care to ensure that the entire event prioritises sustainable practices.

Specific practices include:

- Using local, sustainable and Fair Trade items in lunches and delegate meals where possible
- Placing composting and recycling stations throughout meeting venues
- Using re-useable signage to eliminate one-time-usage as much as possible
- Printing programmes with FSC paper and soy inks
- Eliminating all extraneous packaging such as bags and folders
- Collecting and re-using bamboo lanyards and plastic badge holders
- Providing reusable water bottles and water stations
- Encouraging mass transit to the Forum from London
- Providing a carbon-offset link for attendees to offset their travel

The Skoll World Forum will offset the calculated carbon emissions for our staff and donate the final sum to Climate Care.

PLEASE LEAVE YOUR BADGE AND LANYARD AT SAID BUSINESS SCHOOL TO BE RE-USED. THANK YOU!
